

Ideas for Storytelling events

Here are some storytelling ideas you that can make a great addition to any events programme. All of the following can be delivered flexibly, from 'one off' 30-60 minute slots, to full performances for a dedicated storytelling event, or short sessions repeated 4 or 5 times over a day.

Fantastic Fables

A great choice for mixed family audiences, enjoyed by the youngest to the oldest. Fables work at many levels - Young children love the tales at face value with animals doing very human things, whereas older children and adults recognise the deeper meaning and subtle moral or ethical messages. The Fantastic Fables theme can also be used to develop environmental messages. More about Fables.

Tales from Beyond

Ghost stories are a storytelling favourite and I can offer tales that are suitable for all ages. Told to thrill rather than chill, an evening with these tales is guaranteed to create a lasting memory. Why not make it a really special event with an evening of ghost stories around a fire? Mabinogion

I have been reconnecting audiences with these wonderful stories for over a year now and everyone comments how much better they understand the stories as a result. If Welsh Culture is important to you, then this package is a must. These rich tales were always meant to be experienced through the spoken word and once you hear them, you'll understand why. Myth and Magic Wales is a land filled with an ancient and rich history; myths, legends and folklore where magic was part and parcel of everyday life. This package will transport you back into a mystical past, firing up the imagination to reveal the secret treasures hidden in the mountains of Wales. More on myth, folklore and magic

The Power of Place

Stories can be a powerful way to bring the history of a place to life and help visitors connect at a deeper level to a location or the people who once lived there. You can request stories that are anchored in a particular time to develop a strong sense of history associated with a particular place. We also have experience in providing tailor made storytelling solutions for interpretive services and even extending to commissions for developing a storytelling tour.
